

2 MIDPOINT INTERPRETATION

Midpoints enable you to improve your interpretation in a stunning way using a solid base of astrological keywords.

What is a midpoint? A midpoint is a point in space exactly halfway between any two planetary bodies that adds vital information to your interpretative picture. Midpoints combine the qualities of the planets between which they lie.

A Mars/Pluto midpoint combines Mars energy with Pluto intensity resulting in ‘intense energy.’ When a third planet such as the emotional Moon contacts the Mars/Pluto pair then you have great extremes of emotion and energy. The many unique planetary midpoint combinations in this Compendium are listed in alphabetical order to give you valuable keyword information at a glance.

At the top of each midpoint page you will see two planets listed along with the description of the qualities of these two planets.

Next, read the effective and ineffective manifestation of the qualities of these planets.

The table shows the reaction when a third planet makes contact with the original two planets.

Chapter 2

The effective manifestation of the midpoint is always listed first followed by the ineffective manifestation. Ineffective manifestations are listed in [brackets.]

Note: A person with a particular midpoint combination in their chart can possess one or many of the keyword adjectives listed after the various midpoint combinations.

For example: You need information about a person with a Moon = Sun/Venus midpoint. Your Compendium tells you the following effective and ineffective manifestations of this planetary combination:

Mo=So/Ve Emotionally affectionate/loving [Weak - Moody - Maudlin]

This person may, at times, be moody but not necessarily weak or weak but never moody. In other words, the individual often will not possess every keyword listed for effective or ineffective manifestation.

You will easily recognize the outstanding traits from knowing or even from hearing about that person.

Now, contemplate each planetary combination as you keep lifestyle and temperament of your client in mind
