Forecasting

GENERAL YEARLY FORECAST FOR CLIENT

Progressions - Directions - Transits

You have completed the calculations for the year ahead for your client and you are now ready to interpret these calculations. Your client's chart shows the following for the coming year:

Jupiter p - Moon r

Mars s - Sun r

Saturn s - Neptune r

Transiting Jupiter/Saturn conjunct Neptune r

Working with your keywords you will forecast at a glance.

First, you see progressed Jupiter contacting your client's natal Moon. You will remember that progressions indicate a psychological condition. Progressed Jupiter will bring your client a happy [Moon] emotional state. This pleasant, out-going feeling will undoubtedly bring opportunities to your client.

Chapter 1 in the Compendium gives you keywords representing the Moon. There are keywords describing Jupiter and the effective and ineffective manifestations of the influence of these planets.

Chapter 2 goes even further with this interpretation. It gives you the result of a contact of Jupiter/Moon (remember that Moon/Jupiter reads the same).

You see the obvious happy emotional outlook for the effective manifestation. There is the tendency toward extravagance, carelessness and the growth of indulgent habits. You will mention the need for moderation to your client at this stage of your consultation; emphasizing the effective manifestation of the outgoing emotions brings new opportunities.

Next, there is a Mars direction to your client's natal Sun. Mars will energize the self-expression and the person. The Mars maleness will make your client more aggressive and more confident than they have been previously.

If your client is a very disciplined person then there may be a year ahead of vigorous energy put into various activities resulting in some very productive conclusions.

If your client is not a very disciplined person then there can be rash events and accidents. These events and accidents will be activated by Mars transits to the client's natal Sun, so you will quickly note any upcoming transits in your yearly ephemeris and forewarn your client.

You have gotten this quality interpretation by reading the Sun and Mars keywords and reviewed the table listing the contact of Mars/Sun (remember Sun/Mars reads the same).

When you see this combination, you noted the ineffective Mars/Sun could be stubbornness, obstinacy, and belligerency.

This gives you a clue as to how negative behavior could cause accidents for your client. It would be wise to emphasize here the great potential for ambition and determination in some project but they should be mindful of the possibility of belligerence and obstinacy causing obstacles or accidents.

Next, you see directed Saturn to natal Neptune. Directed Saturn will discipline your client's Neptune idealism.

Forecasting

This is not an easy direction. Saturn will do this by ending old conditions and creating new and better ones by destroying your client's false idealism.

Important: If your client is a person who is unusually sensitive then there will be a health factor connected with the dissolution of the Neptune outlook by the individual.

Here again you have created this solid interpretation by reading the keywords for Saturn and Neptune along with the very informative Saturn/Neptune table. Saturn/Neptune in the ineffective manifestation is anxiety and may even cause depression and illness.

Naturally at this point in the consultation you will stress the great potential for success this year through the application of method and practical idealism. You will also stress the need to guard the tendency to emotionalize things instead of using common sense and practicality.

Lastly, you see a major transit of Jupiter and Saturn to Neptune. This Jupiter/Saturn combination or conjunction will bring a strong philosophic outlook.

Reading the effective and ineffective combination of Jupiter/Saturn tells that this strong, philosophic planetary twosome will help ease the impact of the difficult Saturn/Neptune direction.

Saturn brings solid reality to your client's Neptune, thus destroying a long held dear and unhealthy fantasy condition.

The above interpretation was done without any research into the natal chart and yet it is a very quality, concrete, professional interpretation!
